SHIKI is a sensory short circuit, where the eye reads a textile while the hand discovers ceramic. Designed by Studio Hasuike for Atelier Mirage, it does not imitate tatami. It reinterprets its compositional philosophy. Not decoration, but a system of thought. Within the name SHIKI coexist two meanings: “four seasons” (四季) and “to arrange” (式). The ever-changing harmony of nature and the discipline of the one who composes it.

SHIKI è quel cortocircuito sensoriale in cui l'occhio legge un tessuto mentre la mano scopre una ceramica. Progettata da Studio Hasuike per Atelier Mirage, non imita il tatami. Ne reinterpreta la filosofia compositiva. Non una decorazione, ma un sistema di pensiero. Nel nome SHIKI convivono due significati, “quattro stagioni” (四季) e “disporre” (式). L'armonia mutevole della natura e la disciplina di chi la compone.

Tatami

Tatami

SHIKI emerges from a three-dimensional approach to design. Just as tatami defines the rhythm of Japanese living, each slab enters into dialogue with the others, generating compositions and counterpoints where rhythm shapes a deliberate sense of balance. Pure lines and controlled imperfections coexist within a distinctive design identity. Essentiality and decoration, rigour and warmth. The grammar of contemporary living.

SHIKI nasce da un approccio tridimensionale al progetto. Come il tatami scandisce il ritmo dell'abitare giapponese, così ogni lastra dialoga con le altre generando composizioni e contrapposizioni dove il ritmo costruisce l'equilibrio desiderato. Linee pure e imperfezioni controllate convivono con un'identità progettuale di carattere riconoscibile. Essenzialità e decoro, rigore e calore. La grammatica del vivere contemporaneo.

Design Studio Hasuike

Studio Hasuike, founded in Milan in 1968, has explored the relationship between form, function and meaning for over half a century. Makio Hasuike, an industrial designer and visionary capable of distilling complexity into essential gestures, is the author of works now held in the collections of Museum of Modern Art in New York and the Triennale Milano. He was awarded the Compasso d'Oro Career Award for his contribution to design culture.

Naomi Hasuike brings to the studio a contemporary perspective shaped by attention to detail and dialogue between disciplines. Together, they create solutions poised between innovation and measured elegance, in a creative partnership enriched by difference. With SHIKI, Studio Hasuike interprets, for the first time, one of the most iconic elements of its cultural heritage: tatami, distilled into ceramic surface.

Studio Hasuike, fondato a Milano nel 1968, esplora da oltre mezzo secolo la relazione tra forma, funzione e significato. Makio Hasuike, industrial designer, visionario capace di racchiudere la complessità in gesti minimi, autore di opere oggi conservate al MoMA di New York e alla Triennale di Milano, riceve il Compasso d'Oro alla Carriera per il contributo apportato alla cultura del progetto.

Naomi Hasuike, architetto, porta nello studio una prospettiva contemporanea fatta di attenzione per il dettaglio e di dialogo tra discipline. Insieme firmano soluzioni in equilibrio tra innovazione e calibrata eleganza, in un sodalizio arricchito dalle differenze. Con SHIKI, Studio Hasuike interpreta per la prima volta uno degli elementi più iconici delle proprie radici culturali. Il tatami, condensato nella lastra ceramica.

Where

DOVE LA MATERIA
INCONTRA LA MISURA,
LO SPAZIO TROVA
IL PROPRIO EQUILIBRIO.

Measuring space does not mean calculating it. It means understanding it. This distinction is the starting point of SHIKI, where every formal choice responds to a clear principle. Proportion as an act of balance, not reduction.

Misurare lo spazio non significa calcolarlo. Significa comprenderlo. Questa distinzione è il punto di partenza di Shiki, dove ogni scelta formale risponde a un principio chiaro. La misura come atto di equilibrio, non di riduzione.

“Balanced textures,
compositional rhythms:
SHIKI, a bridge between tradition and contemporary design.”

“Trame equilibrate,
ritmi compositivi:
Shiki, ponte
tra tradizione
e design contemporaneo.”

The Tatami Texture is born from a process that masterfully balances graphics, body composition and structured glazes, bringing depth to the surface. The result is a remarkably tactile material presence. Though remaining perfectly flat, the slab evokes the woven quality of fibre. The Bordatura, applied along two sides parallel to the weave, modulates light through a subtle dotted texture. Not decoration, but an expressive form. Studio Hasuike calibrated every variable to achieve a living, evolving surface defined by refined intensity.

La Texture Tatami nasce da una lavorazione che dosa con maestria grafica, impasto e smalti strutturanti, capaci di restituire profondità alla superficie. L'effetto è un'evidenza materica sorprendente. Pur rimanendo piana, la lastra evoca la fibra intrecciata. La Bordatura, su due lati paralleli all'ordito, modula la luce con una puntinatura lieve. Non decorazione, ma forma espressiva. Studio Hasuike ha calibrato ogni variabile fino a ottenere una superficie viva, mutevole, dalla raffinata intensità.

SHIKI's tones do not describe a colour. They evoke an experience. The wind before the rain, the warmth of hot springs, the earth of riverbanks, the light of the early sun. Each chromatic code is enriched by the interplay of texture and Bordatura, within a process of calibration developed by Studio Hasuike.

Le tonalità di SHIKI non descrivono una cromia. Evocano un'esperienza. Il vento che precede la pioggia, il calore delle sorgenti, la terra degli argini, la luce del primo sole. Ogni codice cromatico si arricchisce della contaminazione di trama e bordatura, in un processo di calibrazione seguito dallo Studio Hasuike.

FOR MORE INFO

Two slab typologies, with and without Bordatura, interact to generate different rhythms: definition or continuity, emphasis or extension. Listelli and quadrelli introduce a second visual layer, creating compositions where every accent is carefully calibrated. Cross, linear or perpendicular laying patterns. A compositional grammar built on balanced asymmetry and repetition that never becomes monotony.

Due tipologie di lastra, con e senza Bordatura, dialogano generando ritmi diversi, definizione o continuità, marcatura o estensione. Listelli e quadrelli introducono un secondo livello visivo, per composizioni dove ogni accento è calibrato. Posa a croce, lineare, perpendicolare. La grammatica compositiva si fonda su asimmetria bilanciata e ripetizione che non è mai monotonia.
